

3rd Annual Northeast PA Energy Solutions Expo

August 26 - 27, 2011
Marywood University, Scranton, PA

Energy is always on the forefront of our minds, whether it is the energy we need to get moving in the morning, the energy required for our cars to transport us to work, or how much our next utility bill is going to cost. Energy is all around us and we utilize it throughout almost all of our daily activities. Energy is discussed very fervently whether in a political climate or at the grocery store or local meeting place with our friends. Energy consumption is at its peak and continually rising, but we are better educated on the subject and realization is that we need to conserve or curb our usage for both economical and environmental reasons.

The Pocono Northeast Resource Conservation & Development (RC&D) Council and the Northeast PA steering committee of the Central PA USGBC and its partners will be hosting the 3rd Annual Northeast PA Energy Solutions Expo on June 26 - 27, 2010 at Marywood University in Scranton, PA. This Expo is an educational and informational event that will highlight exhibitors and vendors showcasing technology, products, and innovations to conserve, reduce, or supplement a person's energy use while providing locally developed alternative and renewable energy options. The Expo will include educational presentations and seminars on energy related topics. Some of the topics include:

- ▶ Energy opportunities with Solar
- ▶ New and Improving Technologies
- ▶ Energy Conservation and the Building Envelope
- ▶ Soil reclamation and water reuse
- ▶ Sustainable features of Marywood University Architectural Center
- ▶ Green Building Design

Don't miss this great opportunity to explore new technologies that are being developed to address the need for locally produced energy. The 2009 & 2010 Northeast PA Energy Solutions Expos were large successes with over 600 people attending to learn about all of the new and exciting technologies and products that are available. The educational sessions were a huge hit with the attendees as they learned about energy conservation and whole host of new and innovative technologies that are available for use.
